THE TAX BILL.

The House went into Committee of the Whole on the Tax bill, Mr. Pomenov in the chair.

Mr. Mannan, of the Ways and Means Committee, also supported the bill, and was followed by Mr. Allison, of the same Committee, who presented some general views having reference to the pending measure, and on the general subject of raising revome; after which he presented some statements having reference to the specific subjects of taxation included in the bill. He said there were but few persome in the country with a wow themselves as opposed to the payment of the national creditors. No one of the country could doubt our ability to meet out of the country could doubt our ability to meet out of the country could doubt our ability to meet out of the country country could doubt our ability to meet out of the Government. The policy of Congress since the close of the rehellon had been to reduce the taxes to the lowest limit consistent with good fath, and at the same time to reduce the expenditures of the Government. A reterence to the receipts and expenditures for the last two years would show that this purpose had been faithfully carried out by tongress from itsel to its?. Taxes were increased after the close of the war. The Thirty mint Congress, at its first session, reduced the taxelina about sky millions more. During the present session further reduction had taken pince. The country of the country of the country of the present session further reduction had taken pince. The country was during the year ended on any one disciplination of $500,000.000. Was squivalent to $10.01 per capita. The ordinary expenditures for the same year amounted to $200,000.000. Was squivalent to $10.01 per capita. The ordinary expenditures for the same year amounted to $200,000.000. Was squivalent to $10.01 per capita. The ordinary $10.000.000 paid for bounties, and the expenditures of the Indian war on the border, they amounted to $200,000.000. At the present session the tax of the consumers of products, otherwise wholly be absoluted. She under the reduction of the fax on manufactures be to induce a healthy competition, the benefit of this reduction would incre to the consumers of products, otherwise wholly to the manufacturers, and expecially of those articles which hare also imported from foreign countries. But if this healthy competition, in taking off the manufacturers of which must have passed in the the hands of the judge of the producers of this article and constantly advanced, while the price of other producers of CHANAN.

connection Mr. Allison presented a statement showing the amount and rate of taxation of the national banking associations for the year ending Dec. 31, 1865. From this it appeared that the capital of the national banks in all the States and territories amounted to $425,000,000; that the amount of tax paid to the United States Government by the banks was to $0,385,000, or about 2½ per cent, and the amount of State taxes was $4,312,000, or 2.45 per cent. This statement did not include two banks in Mississippi, two in South Carolina, and one in Nevada, from which reports had not been received. Referring to the agreement arrived at by the Committee of Ways and Means, not to report a bill for the general revision of the tariff at the present seasion, Mr. Allison remarked that there was no occasion for such general revision, as the manufacturing industries of the country were at present in a prosperous condition. As to the coal interest, a larger quantity of coal has been produced this year in the United States than ever before—in Pennsylvania equal to a million tones. Mr. CANE, in order to show that the coal interest was not prosperous, states that anthractic coal was seeling cheaper to easy than a nay other period for far as the iron interest of the country was conned, it would not suffer by a failure to modify the fill at this session, and the same might be said as all other great manufacturing interests of the nutry. Referring to the frauds on the revenue, he under the responsibility for them to the Secretary the Treasury and the Fresident, remarking that as g ago as becember last the Commissioner had regiven by Mr. Rollins before the Judiciary Committee Last July.

Mr. Allison declined to yield for that purpose, and remarked that in the city of New York, where revenue that in the city of New York, where revenue the remarked that in the city of New York, where revenue the remarked to the President. Fraudicial practices had gone to such an extent in Richmond that even the judicial ermine was stained by them, and yet no remova's had been made.

Mr. Wood remarked that the President appointed only Collectors and Assessors, whereas it was well known that the frauds were chiefly perpetrated by inspectors and storckeepers, with whose appointment the President had nothing to do.

Mr. Althoon said that that was only a change of responsibility. The Collectors and Assessors were the appointness of the President, and the Subortinate officers were the appointees of the Secretary of the Treasury. The responsibility, therefore, was in the Eccurive Department.

Mr. Myrkis asked whether the Committee of Ways and Means intended to insist on the $10 tax on clears.

Mr. Althoon replied in the pecative. The Committee of Ways Mr. Althoon replied in the president.

The general debate then closed, and the Committee

The general debate then closed, and the Committee proceeded to consider the bill in detail.

Mr. Haarse, of Maine, moved to strike out the first section of the bill, which constitutes the office of Internal kevenue Commissioner Department. The effect of the section would be that while that officer would nave autocrate power in appointing and removing all the internal revenue officers in the country, the President might, the day after the adjournment of Congress, suspend the Commissioner and appoint another ad interim, which other person could then turn out every officer in the department, and fill the places with his own appointees.

Mr. JUDD moved to amend the section by providing that the commissioners shall be subject to remove and fill the places with his own appointers.

Mr. JUDD moved to amend the section by providing that the commissioners shall be subject to remove at or to suspension, only with the advice and consent of the Senate. That amendment would remove the objection made to the section by the gentionian from Maine Mr. Blaine.

Mr. SCHENCK argued that there was nothing in the section which milliated against the constitutional provision in regard to appointments. The section had the one single object of reducing the Internal Revenue Department under the control of one local, and he would not give a stypence for the law, where the responsibility is divided between the President, the Secretary of the Treasury, and the Commissioner. Conder that system there was nothing but stealing, the conjugation of the verb being "I steal," You steal, "He scals," We steal," Your you steal," Let all steal." [Laughter.]

Mr. Blanker remarked that at present one-fifth of the revenue offices were in the hands of the vers and that under the proposed section the other four-fifths would soon be in like lands.

Mr. Filk thought that instead of one-fifth of the officers being thieves, four-fifths of them were thieves.

Mr. HANDALL remarked that seven-eighths of the officers being thieves, four fifths of them were thieves.

Mr. Randall, remarked that seven-eighths of the revenue officers were Republicans.

Mr. Plak hoped that the question of politics would be kept out of the bill.

Mr. Polandargued that Congress had not the constitutional power to create an independent department of the Government, and to say that Mr. A or B should be at the head of it. That was what was proposed here.

The question was taken on Mr. Judd's amendment, that the Commissioner should be subject to removal that the Commissioner should be subject to removal or suspension only by and with the advice and con-sent of the Senate, and it was agreed to.

Mr. GARPILLO moved to amend the section by making it read that the office of Commissioner of In-ternal Revenue be continued.

Mr. BLAINE withdrew his motion to strike out the first section.

Mr. Garfield's amendment was lost by a vote of 46 to 49. The Chair voted in the negative, thus making Churacu Edwinox.—The members and friends of the Pity-third street Eaptist Church, near Seventh svenue, gathered has evening at the meeting boose, to coogratishate each other upon the success which has attended their enterprise. The pastor, the Rev. W. H. Pendleton, conducted the exercises, which consisted of short addresses by the Rev. Drs. Hodge, Darling, Anderson, Hendrichson, and himself. Mr. J. W. Stevens, President of the Board of Trustees, said that three years ago the Church opened a hall in its neighborhood, and procured such preachers as they were able to find to give instruction. After much entreaty, Mr. Pendleton settled among them, and their numbers increased so rapidly that they purchased three lots at a cost of $25.00 cash, and exceled a very neat and commodistus lecture-room thereon, in which they have worshipped for over eight months. They intend now to go on and complete the edifice, and to do so more readly and cheaply they jurchased the front of the old Church of the Puritans, now being demolished in India square, and it will form the front of the printing out to inhecomer of Seventh avenue, at a cest of $22.00 on this they have exceed a neat three-story and hosement brown-store front dwelling, 25 feet front, which was opened last evening to the inspection of those present, at a cest of $15,803. To the Editor of The Sun.

Sin: In our political readings last evening at Lebanen Hai, before the Democratic Republican Association of the Ninth Ward, no reference was made to finance, though your "lecal," in this morning's Nun, accuses us of "advocating the Pendictonian theory of liquidating the national debt." We studiously avoid that discussion, confining our aim chiefly to a better education of white race Americans on the suffrage question.

To our mind, correct civil ballot distribution, with proper race status adjustment among us, is of vastly more ever-shadowing consequence to the integrity of white Christian civilization on this confinent time Sun, when it "shines for all," will only reflect true light.

A gentle man living at Fewankee, who was near the capes at the time, says the scene was one of the most startling imaginable. All the beasts in the capsized cages wers yelling and striving to get out, while those in vans which had halted near became frightened and were attering tokens of alarm in their peculiar manner. The horses, too, of all the vans, exhibited the numest alarm, requiring the efforts of the drivers to look after them. Until some help arrived nothing could be done with the prostrate van, and it was left, while word was UPHOLSTERER'S MEETING.—A general meeting of upholsterers was held last evening, at Columbia Itali, 231 Grand street, to organize a trade's society. For the past two years there has been nothing of the kind in the city, and the need is so urrent that a decided effort is being made to inaugurate one. There are 750 upholsterers in New York, of whom 66 have already agreed to join, and there is every prospect of having a large and flourishing association. The following officers were elected by acclamation: President, Henry Heid: Vice-President, Jacob Rieber; Secretary, Ben). Lowe: Treasurer, Jacob Rieber; Secretary, Ben). Lowe: Treasurer, Jacob Rimm. The Suchety already numbers cignity members, and their number is constantly increasing.
